Practice in criminal proceedings

10. The jurisdiction of the High Court in all criminal proceedings shall be exercised in accordance with the Criminal Procedure Code and any other law in force in Montserrat.

Practice in Civil Proceedings and in Probate, Divorce and Matrimonial Causes

11. The jurisdiction vested in the High Court in civil proceedings, and in Probate, Divorce and Matrimonial causes, shall be exercised in accordance with the provisions of this Act and any other law in operation in Montserrat and rules of court, and where no special provision is therein contained such jurisdiction shall be exercised as nearly as may be in conformity with the law and practice administered for the time being in the High Court of Justice in England.

Jurisdiction of single Judge

12. Any Judge of the High Court may in accordance with rules of court, or so far as such rules shall not provide, in accordance with the practice and procedure which shall for the time being be in force in the High Court of Justice in England, exercise, in Court or in Chambers, all or any of the jurisdiction vested in the High Court.

Law and equity to be concurrently administered

13. Subject to the express provisions of any other law, in every civil cause or matter commenced in the High Court, law and equity shall be administered by the High Court and the Court of Appeal, as the case may be, according to the provisions of the seven sections next following.

Equities of the plaintiff

14. If a plaintiff or petitioner claims to be entitled to any equitable estate or rights or to relief on any equitable ground against any deed, instrument or contract or against any rights, title or claim whatsoever asserted by any defendant or respondent in the cause or matter, or to any relief founded upon a legal right which before the 1st day of November, 1875 could in England only have been given by a court of equity, the court or Judge shall give to the plaintiff or petitioner the same relief as would be given by the High Court of Justice in England in a suit or proceeding for the same or a like purpose.

Equitable defences

15. If a defendant claims to be entitled to any equitable estate or right, or to relief upon any equitable ground against any deed, instrument or contract or against any right, title or claim asserted by any plaintiff or petitioner, in the cause or matter or alleges any ground of equitable defence to any such claim of the plaintiff or petitioner, the court or Judge shall give to every equitable estate, right or ground of relief so claimed, and to every equitable defence such and the same effect by way of defence against the claim of the plaintiff or petitioner as the High Court of Justice in England would give if the like matters had been relied on by way of defence in any suit or proceeding instituted in that court for the like purpose.

Counterclaim and third parties

16. (1) The court or Judge shall have power to grant to any defendant in respect of any equitable estate or right or other matter or equity and also in respect of any legal estate, right or title claimed or asserted by him—

- (a) all such relief against any plaintiff or petitioner as the defendant has property claimed by his pleading, and as the court or Judge might have granted in any suit instituted for that purpose by that defendant against the same plaintiff or petitioner; and
- (b) all such relief relating to or connected with the original subject of the cause or matter, claimed in like manner against any other person, whether already a party to the cause or matter or not, who has been duly served with notice in writing of the claim pursuant to rules of court or any order of the court, as might properly have been granted against that person if he had been made a defendant to a cause duly instituted by the same defendant for the like purpose.

(2) Every person served with any such notice as aforesaid shall thenceforth be deemed a party to the cause or matter with the same rights in respect of his defence against the claim as if he had been duly sued in the ordinary way by the defendant.

Equities appearing incidentally

17. The court or Judge shall take notice of all equitable estates, titles and rights and all equitable duties and liabilities appearing incidentally in the course of any cause or matter in the same manner in which the High Court of Justice in England would recognise and take notice of the same in any suit or proceeding duly instituted therein.

Defence or stay instead of injunction or prohibition

18. No cause or proceeding at any time pending in the High Court or in the Court of Appeal shall be restrained by prohibition or injunction but every matter of equity on which an injunction against the prosecution of any such cause or proceeding might formerly have been obtained whether unconditionally or on any terms or conditions, may be relied on by way of defence thereto:

Provided that—

- (a) nothing in this Act shall disable the High Court or the Court of Appeal, if it thinks fit so to do, from directing a stay of proceedings in any cause or matter pending before it; and
- (b) any person, whether a party or not to any such cause or matter who would formerly have been entitled to apply to any Court to restrain the prosecution thereof, or who may be entitled to enforce, by attachment or otherwise, any judgment, decree, rule or order, in contravention of which all or any part of the proceedings in the cause or matter have been taken, may apply to the High Court or to the Court of Appeal, as the case may be, by motion in a summary way, for a stay of proceedings in the cause or matter, either generally, or so far as may be necessary for the purposes of justice, and the court shall thereupon make such order as shall be just.

Common law and statutory rights and duties

19. Subject to the provisions of this Act for giving effect to equitable rights and other matters of equity, the High Court and the Court of Appeal and each Judge thereof shall recognise and give effect to all legal claims and demands, and all estates, titles, rights, duties, obligations and liabilities existing by the common law or by any custom, or created by any statute, in the same manner as these matters have hitherto been recognised and given effect to.

Determination of matters completely and finally

20. The High Court and the Court of Appeal respectively in the exercise of the jurisdiction vested in them by this Act shall in every cause or matter pending before the court grant either absolutely or on such terms and conditions as the court think just, all such remedies whatsoever as any of the parties thereto may appear to be entitled to in respect of any legal or equitable claim or matter so that, as far as possible, all matters in controversy between the parties may be completely and finally determined, and all multiplicity of legal proceedings concerning any of these matters avoided.

Rules of equity to prevail

21. In all matters in which there was formerly or is any conflict or variance between the rules of equity and the rules of common law with reference to the same matter the rules of equity shall prevail.

Declaratory order

22. No action shall be open to objection on the ground that a merely declaratory decree or order is sought.

Mode of trial

23. (1) Subject as hereinafter provided, any action to be tried before the High Court, may in the discretion of the court or a Judge, be ordered to be tried with or without a jury:

Provided that the mode of trial shall be by a Judge without a jury unless upon the application of any party to the action, a trial with a jury is ordered.

(2) Any party to the action may within ten days after the action has been set down for trial apply to have the action tried with a jury, and if the court or a Judge is satisfied that—

- (a) a charge of fraud against the party; or
- (b) a claim in respect of libel, slander, malicious prosecution, false imprisonment, seduction or breach of promise of marriage, is in issue, the action shall be ordered to be tried with a jury unless the court or a Judge is of opinion that the trial thereof requires any prolonged examination of documents or accounts or any specific or local investigation which cannot conveniently be made with a jury; but, save as aforesaid the granting of a jury shall in every case be discretionary.

(3) The provisions of this section shall be without prejudice to the power of the High Court or a Judge to order, in accordance with rules of court, that different questions of fact arising in any action be tried by different modes of trial, and where any such order is made the provisions of this section requiring trial with a jury in certain cases shall have effect only as respects questions relating to any such charges or claim as aforesaid.

Granting of mandamus, etc.

24. (1) A mandamus or an injunction may be granted or a receiver appointed by an interlocutory order of the High Court or of a Judge thereof in all cases in which it appears to the court or Judge to be just or convenient that the order should be made and any such order may be made either unconditionally or upon such terms and conditions as the court or Judge thinks just.

(2) If an injunction is prayed for, either before, at, or after the hearing of a cause or matter to prevent a threatened or apprehended waste or trespass, the injunction may be granted if the High Court or a Judge of the High Court thinks fit—

- (a) whether the person against whom the injunction is sought—
 - (i) is or is not in possession under a claim or title or otherwise; or
 - (ii) if out of possession, does or does not claim under any colour of title a right to do the act sought to be restrained; and
- (b) whether the estates claimed by both or by either of the parties are legal or equitable.

Execution of instruments by order of Court

25. Where any person neglects or refuses to comply with a judgment or order directing him to execute any conveyance, contract or other documents, or to endorse any negotiable instrument, the High Court may on such terms and conditions, if any, as may be just, order that the conveyance, contract or other documents shall be executed or that the negotiable instrument shall be endorsed by such person as the High Court may nominate for that purpose and a conveyance, contract, document or instrument so executed or endorsed shall operate and be for all purposes available as if it had been executed or endorsed by the persons originally directed to execute or endorse it. (Amended by Act 21 of 1968)

Restrictions on institution of vexatious actions

26. (1) If, on an application made by the Attorney General under this section to the High Court, the High Court is satisfied that any person has habitually and persistently and without reasonable ground instituted vexatious legal proceedings, whether in the Court of Appeal, the High Court or in the Magistrate's Court, and whether against the same person or against different persons, the High Court may, after hearing the person or giving him an opportunity of being heard, order that no legal proceedings shall without leave of the High Court or a Judge thereof be instituted by him in any court and such leave shall not be given unless the High Court is satisfied that the proceedings are not an abuse of the process of the court and that there is prima facie ground for the proceedings. (Amended by Act 21 of 1982)

(2) If the person against whom an order is sought under this section is unable on account of poverty to retain counsel, the High Court shall assign counsel to him.

(3) On the hearing of an appeal from an order made in any action tried with a jury the following provisions shall apply—

38. A person convicted on indictment may appeal under this Act to the Court of Appeal—

- (a) against his conviction on any ground of appeal which involves a question of law alone; and
- (b) with the leave of the Court of Appeal or upon the certificate of the Judge who tried him that it is a fit case for appeal against his conviction on any ground of appeal which involves a question of fact alone, or a question of mixed law and fact, or any other ground which appears to the court to be a sufficient ground of appeal; and
- (c) with the leave of the Court of Appeal against the sentence passed on his conviction, unless the sentence is one fixed by law.

Determination of appeals in certain cases

39. (1) The Court of Appeal on any such appeal against conviction shall subject as hereinafter provided allow the appeal if it thinks that the verdict of the jury should be set aside on the ground that it is unsafe or unsatisfactory or that the judgment of the court before whom the appellant was convicted should be set aside on the ground of a wrong decision of any question of law or that there was a material irregularity in the course of the trial and in any other case shall dismiss the appeal:

Provided that the court may, notwithstanding that it is of the opinion that the point raised in the appeal might be decided in favour of the appellant, dismiss the appeal if it considers that no miscarriage of justice has actually occurred.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Act the Court of Appeal shall, if it allows an appeal against conviction, quash the conviction, and direct a judgment and verdict of acquittal to be entered, or, if the interests of justice so require, order a new trial.

(3) On an appeal against sentence the Court of Appeal shall, if it thinks that a different sentence should have been passed, quash the sentence passed at the trial, and pass such other sentence warranted in law by the verdict whether more or less severe, in substitution therefor as it thinks ought to have been passed, and in any other case shall dismiss the appeal.
(Inserted by Act 21 of 1968)

(4) Where apart from this subsection—

- (a)* an appeal against a special verdict under section 156 of the Criminal Procedure Code would fall to be allowed; and
- (b)* none of the grounds for allowing it relates to the question of the insanity of the accused, the Court of Appeal may dismiss the appeal if of opinion that but for the insanity of the accused the proper verdict would have been that he was guilty of an offence other than the offence charged.

- (5)
- (i)* An appellant who is to be retried for an offence in pursuance of an order under this section shall be tried upon a fresh indictment preferred by the direction of the Court of Appeal.
 - (ii)* The Court of Appeal may, upon ordering a retrial, make such orders as appear to the court to be necessary or expedient for the custody or admission to bail of the appellant pending the retrial, or for the retention pending the retrial of any property, or money forfeited, restored or paid by virtue of the original conviction or any order made on that conviction.
 - (iii)* On a retrial ordered under this section, section 134 of the Criminal Procedure Code (reading of depositions) shall

- (a) by agreement between the prosecution and the defence; or
- (b) if the Judge is satisfied that the witness is dead or unfit to give evidence or to attend for that purpose, or is absent from Montserrat, or that all reasonable efforts to find him or to secure his attendance have been made without success;

and in either case may be so read without further proof if verified in accordance with rules of Court.

Powers of Court in special cases

40. (1) If it appears to the Court of Appeal that an appellant though not properly convicted on some count or part of the indictment, has been properly convicted on some other count or part of the indictment, the Court of Appeal may either affirm the sentence passed on the appellant at the trial, or pass such sentence in substitution therefor as it thinks proper as may be warranted in law by the verdict on the count or part of the indictment on which the Court of Appeal considers that the appellant has been properly convicted.

(2) Where an appellant has been convicted of an offence and the jury could on the indictment have found him guilty of some other offence, and on the finding of the jury it appears to the Court of Appeal that the jury must have been satisfied of facts which proved him guilty of that other offence, the Court of Appeal may, instead of allowing or dismissing the appeal, substitute for the verdict found by the jury a verdict of guilty of that other offence, and pass such sentence in substitution for the sentence passed at the trial as may be warranted in law for that other offence, not being a sentence of greater severity.

(3) Where on the conviction of the appellant the jury have found a special verdict, and the Court of Appeal considers that a wrong conclusion has been arrived at by the court before which the appellant has been convicted on the effect of that verdict, the Court of Appeal may, instead of allowing the appeal, order such conclusion to be recorded as appears to the Court of Appeal to be in law required by the verdict and pass such sentence in substitution for the sentence passed at the trial as may be warranted in law.

(4) Where on any appeal it appears to the Court of Appeal that the proper verdict would have been a special verdict under section 156 of the Criminal Procedure Code the Court may quash the sentence passed at the trial and order the appellant to be kept in custody as a prisoner of unsound mind under the provisions of the said Act in the same manner as if a special verdict had been found by the jury under that Act.

Supplementary provisions where appeal against special verdict allowed

41. (1) Where in accordance with subsection (1) of section 39 an appeal against a special verdict under section 156 of the Criminal Procedure Code is allowed—

- (a) if the ground, or one of the grounds for allowing the appeal is that the finding of the jury as to the insanity of the accused ought not to stand and the Court of Appeal is of opinion that the proper verdict would have been that he was guilty of an offence (whether the offence charged or any other offence of which the jury could have found him guilty), the court shall substitute for the special verdict a verdict of guilty of that offence, and shall have the like powers of punishing or otherwise dealing with the accused and other powers as the court before which he was tried would have had if the jury had come to the substituted verdict;
- (b) in any other case, the Court of Appeal shall substitute for the verdict of the jury a verdict of acquittal:

Provided that where the offence mentioned in paragraph (a) is one for which the sentence is fixed by law, the sentence shall (whatever the circumstances) be one of imprisonment for life.

(2) The term of any sentence passed by the Court of Appeal in the exercise of the powers conferred by subsection (1)(a) of this section shall, unless the Court otherwise directs, begin to run from the time it would have begun to run if passed in the proceedings in the Court before which the accused was tried.

Re-vesting and restitution of property on conviction

42. (1) The operation of any order for the restitution of any property to any person made on a conviction on indictment and the operation in case of any such conviction of the provisions of section 234 of the Penal Code as to the restitution of the property in goods to the owner thereof, shall, unless the court before whom the conviction takes place, directs to the contrary in any case in which in its opinion, the title to the property is not in dispute, be suspended—

- (a) in any case until the expiration of fourteen days after the date of conviction; and
- (b) in cases where notice of appeal or leave to appeal is given within fourteen days after the date of conviction, until the determination of the appeal; and in cases where the operation of any such order, or the operation of the said provisions, is suspended until the determination of the appeal, the order or provisions, as the case may be, shall not take effect as to the property in question if the conviction is quashed on appeal.

(2) Provision may be made by rules of court for securing the safe custody of any property pending the suspension of the operation of any such order or of the said provisions.

(3) The Court of Appeal may by order annul or vary any order made on a trial for the restitution of any property to any person, although the conviction is not quashed; and the order if annulled shall not take effect, and, if varied, shall take effect as so varied.

Supplementary powers of Court of Appeal

43. For the purposes of an appeal in any criminal cause or matter the Court of Appeal may, if it thinks it necessary or expedient in the interests of justice—

- (a) exercise any or all the powers conferred by section 34 on the Court of Appeal;

Provided that—

- (ii) whenever the Court of Appeal receives further evidence it shall make such order as will secure an opportunity to the parties to the proceedings to examine every witness whose evidence is taken.

Duty to admit fresh evidence

44. Without prejudice to the generality of section 43 of this Act (supplementary powers), where evidence is tendered to the Court of Appeal under that section, the court shall, unless it is satisfied that the evidence if received would not afford any ground for allowing the appeal, exercise its power under that section of receiving it if—

- (a) it appears to it that the evidence is likely to be credible and would have been admissible at the trial on an issue which is the subject of the appeal; and
- (b) it is satisfied that it was not adduced at the trial, but that there is a reasonable explanation for the failure so to adduce it.

Admission of appellant to bail and custody when attending Court

45. (1) An appellant who is not admitted to bail shall, pending the determination of his appeal, be treated in like manner as prisoners awaiting trial.

(2) The Court of Appeal may, if it seems fit, on the application of an appellant, admit the appellant to bail pending the determination of his appeal.

Computation of sentence

46. (1) The time during which an appellant is in custody pending the determination of his appeal shall, subject to any direction which the Court of Appeal may give to the contrary, be reckoned as part of the term of any sentence to which he is for the time being subject, but the court shall not give any such direction where leave to appeal has been granted or a certificate has been given under section 38 of this Act or where the case has been referred to it under section 58 of this Act.

(2) Where the Court of Appeal gives a direction under this section, it shall state its reasons for giving the direction.

(3) Provision shall be made by prison rules for the manner in which an appellant, when in custody, is to be brought to any place at which he is entitled to be present for the purposes of this Act, or to any place to which the Court of Appeal or any Judge thereof may order him to be taken for the purposes of any proceedings of that court, and for the manner in which he is to be kept in custody while absent from prison for such purpose; and an appellant whilst in custody in accordance with those rules shall be deemed to be in legal custody.

47. (1) Where a person convicted desires to appeal under this Act to the Court of Appeal or to obtain the leave of the Court of Appeal, he shall give notice of appeal or notice of his application for leave to appeal in such manner as may be directed by rules of court within fourteen days of the date of conviction.

(2) Except in the case of a conviction involving sentence of death, the time within which notice of an application for leave to appeal may be given, may be extended at any time by the Court of Appeal.

(3) For the purposes of this section the date of conviction shall, where the Court has adjourned the trial of an indictment after conviction, be the date on which the court sentences or otherwise deals with the offender.

Stay of execution

48. In the case of a conviction involving sentence of death or corporal punishment—

- (a) the sentence shall not in any case be executed until the expiration of the time within which notice of appeal or of an application for leave may be given under the preceding section; and

Legal assistance to appellant

50. The Court of Appeal may at any time assign to an appellant a solicitor and counsel, or counsel only, in any appeal or proceedings preliminary or incidental to an appeal in which, in the opinion of the court, it appears desirable in the interests of justice that the appellant should have legal aid, and that he has not sufficient means to enable him to obtain that aid.

Right of appellant to be present

51. (1) An appellant, notwithstanding that he is in custody, shall be entitled to be present, if he desires it, on the hearing of his appeal, except where the appeal is on some ground involving a question of law alone, but, in that case and on an application for leave to appeal and on any proceedings preliminary or incidental to an appeal, shall not be entitled to be present except where rules of court provide that he shall have the right to be present or where the court gives him leave to be present.

(2) If it appears to the Registrar that any notice of an appeal against a conviction, purporting to be on a ground of appeal which involves a question of law alone, does not show any substantial ground of appeal, the Registrar may refer the appeal to the Court of Appeal for summary determination, and where the case is so referred, the Court of Appeal may, if it considers that the appeal is frivolous or vexatious, and can be determined without adjourning the same for a full hearing, dismiss the appeal summarily, without calling on any persons to attend the hearing or to appear for the Crown thereon.

(3) Any documents, exhibits, or other things connected with the proceedings on the trial of any person on indictment, who, if convicted, is entitled or may be authorised to appeal under this Act shall be kept in the custody of the court of trial in accordance with rules of court made for the purpose, for such time as may be provided by the rules, and subject to such powers as may be given by the rules for the conditional re-release of any such documents, exhibits, or things from that custody.

by a prisoner in his custody to be forwarded on behalf of the prisoner to the Registrar.
